OVERVIEW

International Architectural Education Summit 2013
September 13-14, 2013
New Directions in Architecture Education

Conceptualized and organized by UCLA Architecture and Urban Design, Los Angeles; ANCB The Metropolitan Laboratory, Berlin; IE School of Architecture, Madrid in collaboration with the Cassiopeia Foundation, Düsseldorf.

ANCB The Metropolitan Laboratory is delighted to present the 3rd International Architectural Education Summit (IAES) from 13th to 14th September 2013 in Berlin. The summit, jointly conceptualized and organized with UCLA Architecture and Urban Design, Los Angeles and IE School of Architecture, Madrid, will provide a platform for exploring approaches to address new directions in architecture education. The upcoming summit broadens and deepens the continuous ANCB debate, which started with its inaugural symposium 'Educating the Global Architect' in 2009. The 3rd IAES in Berlin will focus on the acute issues at the intersection of three thematic panels: 'The Role of Alternative Architecture Education Platforms', 'Interdisciplinary Strategies in Architecture Education' and 'Collaboration between Architecture Education and Non-Academic Partners'. The summit is dedicated to fostering a constructive dialogue between leading academics, practitioners, policy makers and industry representatives concerned with ideas to take architecture education forward.